“MUSIC 2 ME” STATEMENTS

Former and Current Foster Youth

“As a foster youth, music was my outlet. In times of despair, I turned all my frustrations and anger into music. For me, singing was a way of escaping the pain of reality and the difficult journey I was on. I can honestly say, if it wasn’t for music I wouldn’t be the person I am today. I spent 17 years in the foster care system.”

- Sarah M. Pauter, 18

“Music has helped me cope with so many of the struggles in my life. It has been one of my outlets. Music allowed me to express myself in ways that I could not say myself. Music is a huge part of my life... it’s what saved my life.”

- Sade Burrell, 19

“Where would I be without my music? Probably in a hole. Music has always influenced me and it always will. I just want more people to understand me. If you understand my type of music then you understand me.”

- Shanice Matthews, 15

“Being in the system is difficult. Having music and listening to the different situations that artist put in their music is what helps me deal with being in the system.”

- Rayshon Johnson, 14

“I entered the foster care system when I was 13 years old. Having to live and try to get along with so many kids was hard to do, my biggest coping strategy was music. It helps deal with my every day problems and it helped to express myself, I want to be a DJ.”

- Thomas Durnil, 16

“Music has not only helped me escape my reality like many say, it has helped me comprehend the deeper meaning of me. I have not only been emotionally in tune with music but it has questioned my existence and has made me realize and appreciate the deeper meaning of us, my brothers and sisters.”

- Candy Morales, 22
